

LAB - 4
ID - 202201488
Name - Malay Sidapara
Lab Group - 6

Question 1 :

Question 2 :

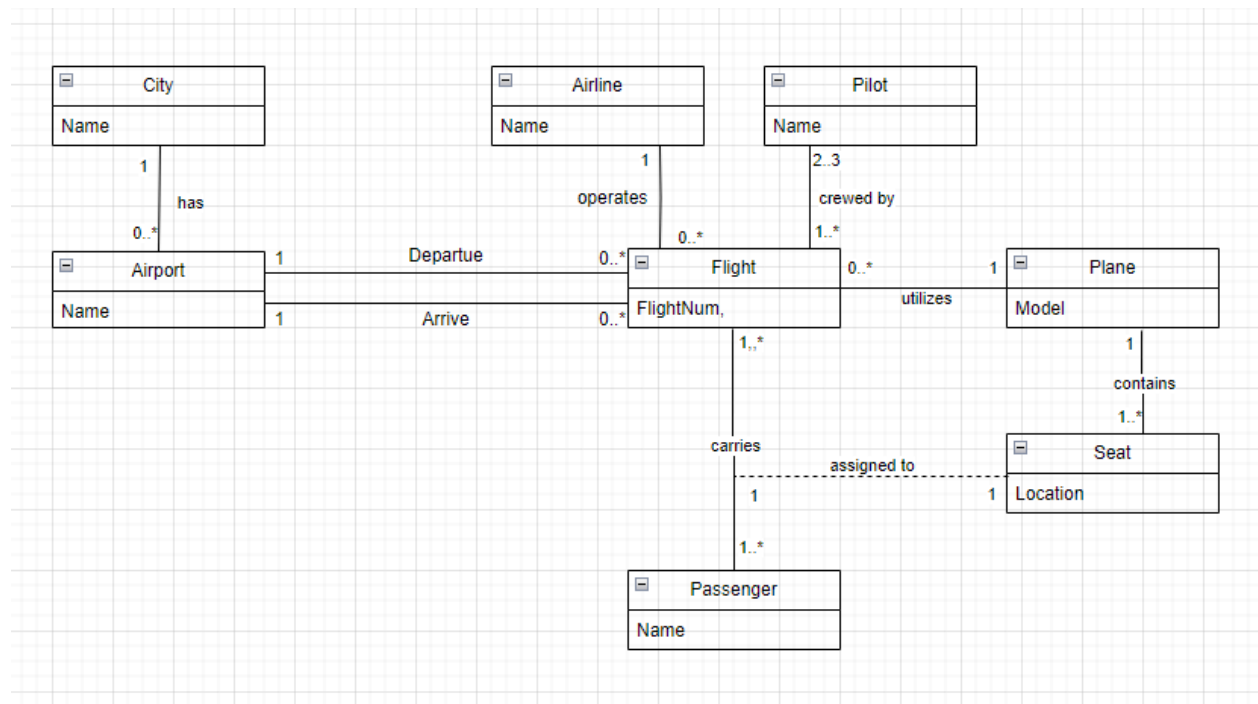

The smallest number of points required to construct a polygon is 3 because the smallest polygon you can have is a triangle.

Points can be common among multiple polygons, often seen in geometric layouts where distinct polygons share vertices.

The order of points within a polygon is crucial as it helps establish the boundaries of the shape.

Question 3 :

Question 4 :

